

Subscriber Update: CNSX & Alpha Listings on Omega ATS

Due to subscriber feedback, Omega ATS has decided to postpone the release of CNSX & Alpha listings an additional two weeks from the original September 17th, 2013 launch date. The official launch date for facilitation of these additional symbols is now October 1st, 2012. Omega apologizes for this delay, however, deems it necessary in the interest of fair access.

The Omega ATS test environment is available to all subscribers and vendors that require additional testing of CNSX and Alpha listings, along with any of our new order types and functionality.

“This delay, although unfortunate, is in our subscribers’ best interest” states Sean Debotte, Omega’s Business Development Director. “It is important to us that all of our subscribers, data vendors and service bureau’s have been able to prepare for this new offering. A few of our subscribers have expressed concerns about the initial release date, and we wanted to assure these participants that they would have a level playing field and fair access to all of our listings”.

For more information regarding CNSX & Alpha listings on Omega ATS please visit our website at:

www.omegaats.com

or contact support at:

support@omegaats.com